

Duo Bill

1 mobile phone – 2 invoices

What is Duo Bill?

- One mobile phone, one number and one SIM card, but separate invoices to the company and the employee's home address
- Charges for calls, additional services and data transmission automatically allocated to the company invoice or the employee's personal invoice
- Fair solution for employee and company alike, in the form of an attractive fringe benefit
- Using the *7 prefix, your employees can make some manual changes to the default allocations (see reverse)

How you benefit

- Clear separation of business and personal use of company mobiles
- The same number and the same phone for business and personal use
- Cost savings, since employees pay for their personal calls themselves
- Improved accessibility, as company mobiles can be issued to more employees
- Automatic and prefix-controlled allocation of calls and services to two different invoices
- No need for time-consuming calculations of personal calls or expense claims for calls on personal phones
- The company remains the legal owner of the phone connections

You can be reached on the same number and the same phone for both business and personal matters.

Requirements

Corporate Mobile Network subscription or NATEL® corporate subscription

Your employee's private NATEL® invoice must be paid by debit memo procedure or direct debit

You provide your employees' private addresses to Swisscom on the form provided

Overview of automatic and prefix-controlled charge allocation

	No prefix	*7 prefix
Calls on the Swisscom network, the Swiss fixed network and Combox queries (incl. video telephony)	Business	Personal
Calls on other Swiss mobile networks (including video telephony)	Business	Personal
Calls to abroad (incl. video telephony)	Business	Personal
Calls while abroad	Business	Not possible
Calls on premium numbers (e.g. 0800/0900)	Business	Personal
Calls within a closed subscriber group (e.g. internal company calls)	Business	Not possible
Data communication in Switzerland and while abroad (GPRS, EDGE, UMTS, WLAN, WAP and fax)	Business	Not possible
SMS (incl. Desktop SMS)	Business	Not possible
MMS	Personal	Not possible
Information services via SMS and MMS, M-voting, downloading services from the Vodafone live! portal	Personal	Not possible

The information in this document does not constitute a binding offer. It is subject to revision at any time.